Ross Jones family reunion

From - Edgar Jones and family
A note from Laura Ruth just to let you know a little about our family.

Since my two strokes in March which kept me asleep for at least two weeks, I have been living with Larry and Linda. I am getting the best care a mother could see week for. I am so lucky.

Carolyn is in Sedona Az. Larry found her a doctor from the computer, and he got doctor of the year "last year" and he has been good for Carolyn. She has been diagnosed with something I can't even say - ^{the} "Bronchiectasis"
- She has a good support group and help, which she needs.

Joyce is in South Carolina and Rose is in Berkeley Ca., at least they are in USA
At one time they were not. Larry & Linda has made three trips to Germany before returning. They have one boy, Larry II.
And Rose has two boys. They are 9 & 13.
Nicky and Ben. She is still a nurse and she can teach school now. California has cut money for schools. but maybe she will get a school. She is going to sign up to sub & also do nursing. It takes so much to live in Ca.

I am so glad you are still getting together and enjoying your families. I hear from Patricia and Jeffrey also. I had their picture thought you might enjoy. Love -

I have one of Edgar & John also in Ca.

Officer Admits Falsifying Affidavit

Jr. College Student Giant Crusade Against

EDITOR'S NOTE: The name of the principal character in the following article has been changed to give him as much protection as possible.

By ERIC MEYER
Star Banner Staff Writer

The Masters didn't look like a soldier.

He does have a military bearing that can be traced to his service in the Marine Corps, but most mothers would look at him and say that he hadn't eaten all of his meals.

At 18, he looks more like a football star at Central Florida Junior College. As a matter of fact, that's what he is.

What is a 14-year-old "figure" doing at 1750?

He is trying to change his prison stripes into the pin stripes of a teacher or lawyer.

His longer four-year struggle to work himself from the hole in the law went on down to the books at one of the great universities against injustice.

After learning to be polite his historic experience in Florida experimental institutions, it is all hard impossible not to think of Paul Brown's role in Florida Brown's historical work. "Mr. Liberty or Mr. No Death."

He has virtually won his battle against the prison. He has won almost complete exemption of the crime for which he served four long, overbearing years.

years. Four years that have not left their mark on his handsome face, the four years that have not dulled the piercing brown eyes that now look ahead, at least with relish, to the even greater struggle that lies ahead.

The money that is readily looks at a man's prison record then so quickly looks away must now take a good long look at the Masters and decide if that man deserves a place in the lives of those who have not undergone his trials, and, what is perhaps more important, must decide if the Masters is called to a place on a company's payroll.

But, let's leave to the relate the astonishing tale that began in January of 1961 in Tampa when he assumed duties as vice manager of sales for a national religious movement.

His knowledge of the law told him that, according to a U.S. Supreme Court ruling, he did not have to purchase a permit to sell the scriptures. The police said he did.

Arrested Four Times

He was arrested three or four times and released without being charged.

According to the prison record, he was arrested in a U.S. military at one of his friends, who were arrested for as the highest in court of law.

So was tried, convicted and sentenced to what he considered such a great violation of his rights that it allowed him to leave the prison with the hope that had been thinking a man's thoughts only a few years before.

While in prison he was charged through four road trips — Appellate, Correctional, Justice, the National Black Book, Death Row and the State of Texas, and coming in an attempt to get back to court to prove his innocence.

The rebellion of the building, James Earl Ray, after arriving at ACL, when he was stopped into solitary confinement for refusing to attend religious services not of his belief.

This led to more superficial disciplinary reports such as "insubordination" (when it was put out on a help-yourself basis), "insubordination" (an opinion that he wasn't doing his best) and others for which he was put in solitary confinement during his four-year stay.

Bread And Water

In trying to appeal these requirements he was denied some more, even to the extent of being handcuffed and shackled in a "box" to freezing temperatures for 12 days on bread and water.

While in solitary on the last occasion, by some "unknown" cause it caught fire, putting the in, inquisition, until a fellow inmate pulled him out.

Thirty minutes later, still in handcuffs and shackles, he was put back in another section of the box.

SUBJECT: Mr. Albert S. Brodbent, former Employee

Dear Sir:

Mr. Albert S. Brodbent was employed here on Nov. 16, 1970 to serve in the capacity of Inventory Control Specialist. Having had no formal training in this field I was very impressed by the aptitude that he showed for investigating losses, handling of people under his supervision, dealing with people in other departments whom could have been involved in these alleged losses, and his general ability to do things without constant supervision.

Mr. Brodbent has been an asset in his short service to our company and I hope you will feel free to call upon me with any further questions as to his character or ability.

Sincerely Yours,

Paul Flory

Heads Or Tales

They Invited Him, So He Went

By GENE SILER

Over towards the west you can see a mountain called "The Peak" in McCreaty County. And if you were on a very tall ladder you could look over into the lush Cumberland River Valley down below.

So you are right now in the heart of Duck Run. Many small streams are called "runs", such as Pleasant Run, Bull Run and various other little creeks. I suppose in pioneer days wild ducks considered Luck Run a favorite spot to get breakfast on their annual trips from Canada to Florida. So when our great grandpas saw all those ducks feeding on their creek every morning they said, "This is a regular duck run". The name stuck and for more than 100 years this has been "Duck Run", 600 miles south of Toronto, Canada, 900 miles North of Miami Beach.

Moss Jones and his wife, who was a Lovett, live in or near Duck Run and they have 7 children I believe.

They got married 50 years ago and so today they entertain their folks and friends with a reception and a rehearsal of the same ceremony that occurred a half century ago.

I counted about 15 Baptist preachers present and I understand the Moss Joneses have 2 preacher boys and 2 preacher sons-in-law in their immediate family.

It was maybe not entirely fitting for a reprobate like me to be rubbing shoulders with all those many preachers and good people.

But they invited me, didn't they? So I went.

The father of Moss Jones was Cy Jones of Duck Run and for some years Cy was postmaster over there. He was also a rural school teacher and a man of such honor and trustworthiness that my father, the one who supervised many loans for Bank of Williamsburg once gave his opinion that Cy Jones was "one man who would stand hitched in the dark" regardless of payday out yonder ahead.

I wish I might have known Cy Jones as a friend because he must have been a prince of a man — one in overalls but wearing the crown jewels of the Lord.

The Jones family is said to have started in Wales some centuries ago. They were musically inclined and could sing like angels or play on the harpsicord at the drop of a Stetson hat.

I'm not certain whether the Jonah in the Bible was somehow related to the Joneses of modern times — Jonah and Jones — one went to Nineveh to preach and one went to Duck Run to be postmaster, schoolteacher and progenitor of many preachers.

Our own Joneses will sing and preach and try to make a better world and that's doing a great lot.

I hope they will invite me back sometime. You all be sure now!

Some folks say that all politicians are crooked.

I do not believe in that assessment at all, but sometimes I am dismayed by the total lack of good conscience shown by those seeking or already holding public office.

As one who never took a junket during 10 years in Congress, I wonder at the callous disregard towards saving taxpayers' money whenever congressmen or senators pack up and fly over to Timbuktu and take along a few secretaries and plenty of whiskey for one of those trips that have no meaning or purpose whatever.

Dismay number two is the practice of nepotism, which means the placing of a wife or close relative on the public payroll. Long ago I decided if I couldn't run the office without putting a family relative on the payroll it just would not be run at all — not by yours truly.

Nor was any member of my staff ever requested to put one dime into the kitty to help re-elect me at any time.

Dismay number three is the habitual or excessive use of alcoholic beverages by those in high office. On one or two occasions I well remember having seen a congressman under the staggering influence of old John Barley corn. It was not surprising to me that the whiskey lobby once put $5,000 into the campaign of one of my opponents.

I always "talked mean" about John Barley corn and in fact I still do.

Alcohol is America's No. 1 drug problem. Three million teenagers are considered problem drinkers.

Forty-three billions of dollars constitute America's annual economic loss due to alcohol.
